

... miles to go before I sleep

I always believe that learning is a lifelong process.

When I look back,
I find it unbelievable
that I'm still journeying on.

The road that took me
to where I am now
has been full of ups and downs.

It was so
worth it.

One thing is certain:
it wouldn't have been
possible without education.
It is constantly changing
to fit the world,
always in motion.

I still have a long way
to go, of[f] course.
Who knows where I will end up?